Guest Lecture on 3 Cs to Better Prepare for the Future Workplace

The Department of Training & Placements organized an insightful guest lecture by Mr. Leo Fernandez on "3 Cs to Better Prepare for the Future Workplace", exclusively for 1st-year MBA students. The session aimed to equip students with the essential skills needed to adapt and excel in the rapidly evolving corporate world.

Mr. Fernandez emphasized the importance of the 3 Cs—Critical Thinking, Communication, and Collaboration—as fundamental skills for professional success.

1. Critical Thinking: He stressed the need for analytical reasoning, problem-solving, and the ability to evaluate situations objectively. By developing a critical mindset, students can make informed decisions, adapt to dynamic business environments, and solve complex problems efficiently.
2. Communication: Effective communication is a cornerstone of leadership and teamwork. The speaker highlighted the significance of clear, concise, and persuasive communication—both verbal and written. He also shared techniques to enhance professional interactions, build strong workplace relationships, and articulate ideas with confidence.
3. Collaboration: In today's interconnected world, teamwork and cross-functional collaboration are crucial. Mr. Fernandez provided insights into fostering teamwork, adapting to diverse work cultures, and leveraging collective intelligence to drive innovation and productivity.

The session was highly interactive, with real-world examples, case studies, and engaging discussions. Students gained valuable perspectives on how these skills can help them stay competitive, navigate workplace challenges effectively, and contribute meaningfully to their organizations. The guest lecture served as a significant learning opportunity, encouraging students to actively develop these competencies and apply them in their academic and professional journeys. The Department of Training & Placements extends its gratitude to Mr. Leo Fernandez for sharing his expertise and inspiring the future business leaders of tomorrow.
